Beautiful weather.

Frank Jenne returned Sunday morning last from his trip east.

How to get your name in the paper—let your taxes become delinquent.

All persons should read the notice of D. W. Livingston in another column.

The mouth-organ and accordion fiends are still allowed to run at large in this territory.

Tax-payers should remember the fact that all taxes become delinquent on and after next Monday.

The great "parliament" for all of Idaho meets in its regular biennial session at Boise city on Monday next.

The Idaho Commercial Co's establishment at this place is one of the most extensive hardware stores in the Territory, and their place of business, at the corner of Commercial and First streets, south side, is well worth looking through. On the inside one is at once struck with the appearance of the immense stock of all kinds of goods in this line. Here is to be found cooking stoves from the smallest and cheapest patterns up to the large and costly ranges. On the shelves and overhead are all kinds and grades of tin, copper and agate ware. All kinds and styles of heaters used in this country, from the plain small wood and coal burners up to the large wood and fancy self-feeding coal burners. The shelves and show cases on the east side of the building contain cutlery and all kinds of shelf-hardware, firearms and a small amount of ammunition. The largest and finest stock of pocket and table cutlery, razors and shears, ever brought to this county, is on sale at very low prices. In the rear is the tin shop, where all kinds of work in the line is attended to with neatness, dispatch and at reasonable rates.

[Salt Lake Daily Tribune.]

The Union Pacific.

The report of the government directors of the Union Pacific Railroad should command the early attention of Congress. An adjustment should be made through which the company can have room to act and power to put itself in a condition to compete with other roads. In considering the matter, Congress should keep in mind two facts. Whatever may have been done by the directors of the Union Pacific in the past, two facts are paramount now. One is that the company owes this money. The second is that when that money is paid, if it is ever paid, the people who patronize the road will have to pay it. The first question is, whether, in the judgment of Congress, it would be better for the people to have the property confiscated and run by the government, or to give the directors such terms as would give them a chance to extricate themselves from the debt. As matters are now drifting, there is now show for either the company or the government. The lines are being swiftly paralleled, and it will not be long before...
