Cast Chosen For Home Talent Play

Response was good Monday night to a request for persons interested in tryouts for a home talent play sponsored by the Weiser Lions Club and scheduled for showing early in March, according to Naomi Ross, who will direct the play.

Mrs. Ross reported that a full cast of characters had been chosen and the first practice of the group was held Wednesday night. All characters show considerable talent and she anticipates that it will result in a first class home talent show in March.

The play is entitled, "It's Spring Again," and is a modern comedy that will prove extremely entertaining and provides easy duties for the actors learning parts.

Amateur actors chosen to portray characters and also play parts portrayed are as follows with the part named first followed by the Weiser residents: name, Vera Ford, Katherine Jackson; Judy Ford, Heather Hill; Tom Lester, Jimmy Michael; Minerva, Gail Spinning; Ray Ford, Larry Scrivner; Walter Ford, Russell Myers; Gerkie, Ross Dance; Phyllis Colby, Mary Ellen Miller; Blanca Ford, Darlene McGinnis; Sutton Colby, Sr., N. J. Rice; Detective O'Hara, Bill Ross and Lavinia "Dragon," Inez McCormick.

Mrs. Ross said she was highly pleased with the cast of characters.

▶ Sunday evening dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Fifth were Mr. and Mrs. William Shelby and family of Boise, Mr. and Mrs. Winston Alfthe and family of Fruitland, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Pierce and Darrell Lee.

Prepare to Install Ferry to Gypsum

A ferry on the Snake River at the Northwest Gypsum Company mine near the mouth of Rock Creek will soon be a reality according to Fred Still. The tripod and headframe on the Idaho side for anchoring the heavy cable completed last week and a bulldozer was moved to the Oregon side where the work is now in progress.

The Gypsum company had a ferry in operation which broke loose during the high water last spring. Still, who is owner of the property which is leased to the Northwest Gypsum Co., said that the cable was cut sometime following the flood presumably because it was hanging too low over the water. It will be spliced and put in place as soon as the Oregon side anchorage is completed.

Still also said there is some question whether the ferry broke loose or was cut loose. However the pontoons from it will be used to build another one. Plans of the company are to ferry the gypsum across the river for shipment by rail or truck.

The road to the mine is passable now by truck. Still said he also has that the Good Roads district plans to grade its portion of the road so it should be in fair condition for auto travel soon.

Chamber of Commerce committee reports there are 300 farmers in this county using gypsum for fertilizer and the committee's report inferred that if one-half of them decided to haul their own gypsum it would justify improving the road. It is now reported, Still said all gypsum used in this area will be shipped to Weiser by truck. Only that going out of the area will be hauled across the ferry and be shipped by railroad branch to Huntington or Payette as does the river from the mine.

He served two terms as president of the state conservation district organization, is serving his third term as a supervisor of the local board and is chairman of the group.

stituted the declaratory judgment action, naming Henry Einspahr as the defendant.

Last week, Judge Norris handed down a memorandum decision in which he outlined the ruling he said would be encompassed in the judgment signed Wednesday of this week.

Hyatt and Hyatt represented Einspahr in the action and Faulkner and Smith in the local school district's judgment of the decision of the court.

Judgment Quoted

In declaratory judgment signed by the judge Wednesday, he decreated

"That in as much as neither the said A A Brashears nor the said Henry Einspahr received a majority of the votes cast at an election of the school district held on January 10, 1953, for the office of trustee District No 3 of Class A School District No 431, of Washington County, Idaho, no trustee was elected for said Trustee District No 3 at the annual school election for all trustee held on the first Tuesday in of September, 1952 in Washington County, Idaho.

"That for the reason that neither the said A A Brashears nor the said Henry Einspahr received a majority of votes at said election, but that each received the same number of votes cast for said office of trustee, and said vote was a tie, that by reason thereof the office of trustee for said Trustee District No 3 became vacant at said election, and that there has been ever since the first Tuesday in September, 1952 a vacancy in said office of trustee for said Trustee No 3 and no one is authorized and qualified to perform the duties of such office.

"That while the said A A Brashears was the duly chosen, qualified and acting trustee of said Trustee District No 3, of said Washington County, Idaho, for several years prior to said first Tuesday in September, 1952 he did not be reason thereof so far as records show or held over a 3 year Trustee term of office and that he has not been since then qualified to act as such trustee.

"That the said Henry Einspahr was duly elected and qualified to fill said vacancy as soon as said board can be brought together for the purpose of acting upon said appointee, a qualified person to fill the vacancy existing in said Trustee District No 3 such appointee to hold office until the next annual school election, and until the appointment of a successor should the appointment of a successor become necessary before such next annual school election.

IN DAYS OF OLD

Items Gleaned From Files of The Signal

By HARRY PEPPER

Current Comment

The editors present use of pitching has freely of trouble while writing "Current Comment" last week. It will be recalled that we told of a visit to W. W. Whitlow's ranch in Joaquin Tree monument in California. Part of the time our hotel-written copy called Mr. Whitlow by his correct name, and at other times I wrote "Winslow." My humble apologies to all concerned.

Several letters were awaiting us when we got home Monday. After reading the week's comments on the Davis and Whitlow families, Mrs. Jennie Patch of the Oregon Side wrote, in part:

"I am interested in Days of Old column in the January 29 edition of The Signal. The Frank Davis family and his mother, Mrs. Jessie Mathews, were homestead neighbors of mine on the south Idaho near Moore's Hollow on the Oregon Side. Her homestead and mine joined on the sagebrush covered hills between Mathews and Moore's Hollow and the Snake.

"Especially am I interested in Tuesday Days of Old' items, as I think it time for me to have my say, which will be about the Sater family and some of their relatives.

"I note that Johnny Adams of Oakland, Calif., mentioned two of my uncles' names, Dave Webb and John Shipley, whose wives were my father's Giles A Sater's sisters. Their names were Rose (Webb's wife) and I think that are not sure! That John Sallee's wife was Lucy. This would be the father and mother of Mamie Gilderoy (living now in Weiser and Sandy Sallee of Payette.

"Another uncle was Solomon Taylor, father of Chester now living in Weiser, as well known as Chester Taylor, Hollywood Director's wife was also my father's sister, Mary Nora, married John Hutton. I can gather is that Uncle Sol and Aunt Mary went to Washington county and settled in Mount Pleasant about 1874. Then daughter, Emma, was about four years old when they moved to Mann Creek, having been born in 1871.

"My father and his brother, Uncle Giles Sater, followed Uncle Sol Taylor about 1879. John Sallee's wife was a Mc-Gregor, sister to Cyrus, Heck and Bill Frank McGregor. The McGregor family was about six months old. My grandfather, Dr. Giles Sater, came with my father and Uncle John to Idaho. They first settled in Salubria valley, Idaho, and I think up then homesteads on Mann Creek. Mrs. Sallee, Aunt Rose, as the Walker and Carlson families.

"My father told me that his family, Mr. Sater, planted the first of walnut trees, many of which are still there on the Walker farm, then known as the John Sater ranch.

"My father was a single man when he moved to Idaho and married Mary Ann Mellie Barbara, daughter of Elder Greenberry Barton, about 1880. Now, speaking of Grandfather Barbara's family, I think they came to Idaho around 1878 to 1880. My Aunt Barbara Stevens, was living in Weiser, I think you can get more of a page with the rest of the family. I believe it was Grandma Sallee, Aunt Rose, moved to Weiser rather than 1880. Her father was a cousin of Greenberry Barton and I think they came together. Must be wrong.

"My father people originally from Missouri but migrated by oxen and horses to John Day in several year before moving to Idaho.

"The following may interest many of your readers:

"My father, Giles Sater, Uncle John Sater, Grandfather Dr. Giles Sater, Uncle Sol Taylor, John Sallee, Dave Webb, the twin brothers Al and Lam Watkins, their father, Tom Finn and others that I can't recall, were old-time freighters. They hauled supplies from The Dalles, Ore., which was the end of the steamboat line from the mouth of the Columbia river and Portland, over the Old Oregon trail before the railroad was finished. At that time I think the road ended in the vicinity of Boise. However, I think they freight today ended in the Powder river country in Oregon, and other freighters carried on from there to meet the train.

"Sincerely yours, Cecil H. Sater."

There is still another interesting item from our old friend, H. J. "Johnny" Adams of Oakland, but we will save it for next week. However, we cannot resist expressing appreciation to those who are taking the time to write interesting comments. Once in print, they will be available for later generations to study and gather information from those who first settled this area. If any of the people of whom we should be mentioned, won't you kindly send in what information you have?

Issue of February 6, 1897

These old 1897 Signals were practically filled with arguments for the coinage of silver. And when we say "practically" filled, that's just what we mean. Of the approximately eight columns of news and editorials on the four sides of pages each issue had four pages, one half of the space was given over to the discussion of the silver question.

We have mentioned before that we did not know anything about it at the time. This week we took time out to study the encyclopedia, but we can see no use for such a dark The one thing we did learn which will be more or less of a surprise was that in 1890, when Mr. Kinley was elected, the Republic party adopted silver coinage and the matter was settled on a basis of speaking from both sides at time on.

We have avoided saying whether or it was "free coinage" or limited proportion to the gold at the ratio of 16 to 1. That question is foggy in our mind. It was in the days when Weiser was full of every. But one of the reasons this country was so anxious to get out from silver was because of short trade. At the turn of the century England was holding high hand in the controversy and despite attempts of the United States, France and other countries to call conferences on the silver question, Britain refused.

The reason the Signal attempted to influence the public for silver was because, we believe, it felt that the mining of silver at Mineral, Idaho, was the mainstay of the low price of the metal.

The Weiser Academy has suspended school work for a week or so on account of sickness. A number of young ladies have been confined to their rooms with a special "la grippe." Mrs. Kate Ward and baby of Silver City is visiting in Weiser. Wonder if the "baby" can't the same person as Walter York of the Sons-York printers of Boise? "A heavy wind yesterday made the dust fly in the streets of Weiser." Jack Farmer and Miss Fannie Jones were married. They were living at one of the Galloway houses in the north limits of town. A. H. Anderson was in Payette on his way to Falk's Store. "Cripple Creek Colorado" is roaring like mad and houses are going up at the rate of 20 a day. Gilbert Tracy is leaving for that booming camp to try his fortunes for a time." J. A. Denny, "the Alpine merchant," returned from Union county, Oregon, where he had gone for his health. He was much improved and ready to attend to business again." Alpine is the little store and filling station between Cambridge and Mesa on Highway 95. "Ed Jewell came back from Cripple Creek and check full of that county. He will at once take his family there and he expects to pull out a fortune at time of greater or less dimensions. We hope he will."

"Lots of newcomers will be filing the soil of Weiser land this spring. Considerable attention is being attracted to the magnificent
