Emergency Declared On Three Highways To Facilitate Repair

The Idaho highway board announced today that it is issuing a declaration of emergency covering three sections of the state where state highways and bridges were damaged extensively as a result of the floods during the past week. Two of the sections are in northern Idaho and one in northern Utah.

Board Chairman Roscoe C. Rich, Boise, said that the emergency declaration is being made in order to expedite the immediate repair, reconstruction and restoration of damaged and destroyed highways and bridges.

"When it was apparent that there would be trouble on U. S. 29, north of New Meadows, the department has been authorized to declare an emergency," he said. "The department has no such equipment as a bulldozer or a crane which would be necessary to repair the bridge."

The three areas declared as emergency are: the bridge over the Little Lost River at a point about 10 miles north of New Meadows; the bridge over the Snake river at a point about 10 miles north of New Meadows; and the bridge over the Snake river at a point about 10 miles north of New Meadows.

ROOM AT PIONEER SCHOOL—Warm colors, adequate lighting and modern wardrobe and storage accommodations catch the eye of any visitor to any of the three classrooms on the north side of the west wing of the Pioneer school now ready for occupancy. Shown above is one of the classrooms with one of the workmen "bleeding" the long, modern concrete-type radiator as one of the final steps in preparing the room for pupils. Only difference between the north side rooms and those with the south exposure is that the ones on the south side are decorated with "cooler" colors. Each room has a sink and drinking fountain, and modern forced ventilation in the wardrobe cabinets. Each teacher has a private wardrobe closet shown immediately to the right of the sink. Indirect lighting of the corridor side of the classroom adds to the natural light. (Signal-American photo by Dennis Smith)
