FROM SOUTH AFRICA:

New Way of Using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

Mr. Arthur Chapman writing from Durban, Natal, South Africa, says: "As I read that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a sure cure for croup, I will say that I have used it for my old and young, I now use the following way: A neighbor of mine had a child just over two months old. It had a very bad cough and the parents did not know what to give it. I suggested that if they would get a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough remedy and rub some upon the chimney rest the baby was making it would no doubt save the child. The they did and brought about a quick relief and cured the baby." This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

Stopped Its Paper.

"I've stopped my paper, you bet I do!
I didn't like it, did I,
But the editor he got too smart
And I'll allow he'll see it.

I am a man as pays his debts
And won't be insulted,
So when an editor gets too smart,
I want to be consulted.

I took his paper 'leven years,
And helped him all I could, sir;
An' when it comes to dunnin' me,
I didn't think he would, sir.

But that he did, and you can bet
It made me hot as thunder.
Says I, I'll stop that shed, or I will
—If he ceased doing goes under!

I hunted up the measly sheet
—for 'tis dennis' paper—
I paid him seven years or split!
Yes, sir, I've stopped his paper."

Protection for Trains.

The semaphore system has been adopted by the Oregon Short Line and O. R. & N., railroads which throws every precaution around the operation of trains to insure their safety and quick dispatch.

In addition to inaugurating the semaphore system of handling trains the section foremen along the line has instructed to see that the trains do not run close together than ten minutes limit prescribed by the time card.

The semaphore system is this: The arm of the station semaphore, which is regulated by the telegraphic train orders, is now always left set for a full stop for every train, all-the time, and when a train approaches a station, if it does not have to stop for any other purpose, the engineer calls for signals from the station agent by giving four short blasts on his whistle and at the same has no orders for that train to lessen the arm of the semaphore and permits the train to pass without a stop. If the agent has orders for the train he does not lower the semaphore and the train comes to a stop and receives her orders.

This rule does not apply to Pendleton or Lamtucki, which are located and at which all trains must stop and receive their orders.

In this way it is impossible for a train to pass the station without the knowledge of the operator and thus all possibility of collision or running past orders is prevented.

It is almost as rigid a system as the block system is, and the roads of the eastern states and is fully as effective in preventing accidents.

The new orders to section foremen and watchmen to look for trains running together is an additional measure of safety, and is also practiced on most roads operating the block system or bridge watchmen see that two trains are never together—Ontario Argus.

Mr. Randol, of the Signal, is entirely too modest in his estimate of the second Idaho county that is eight miles to 10 minutes have elapsed, since the preceding train passed.
