LOVE IS STRONG.

Love is strong as the wind.
Love is as strong to brighten the world's darkness and hate as death.
Love is the flame of a human soul.

And a stricken thing is love,
And a beast that trembles
Yet her strength is the wind's
And the earth's grave,
And the sea's,
And the heavens' flame and
death.

—Richard Burton.

HIS SELF CONTROL.

He Proved It to His Own but Not His Family's Satisfaction.

"Mr. Brown the excitable by nature but he often prided himself on his self control. One night when the family were retiring—"

[illegible] the chimney began to roar. The furnace draft had been opened and regardless. Straightway a panic ensued.

"Mary, run your best—Bess and grind, Mr. Brown. "It's nothing serious.

Ed flashed up the stairs, discovered that the metal cap over the only escaped atmosphere into was already so hot, and dashed down again into this he went up.

"Keep cool!" he prayed as he passed through the room where the family had gathered in serious apprehension. "I'll be back in a minute."

He was back in less than that time having observed that the flames were spitting several feet into from the chimney and that a shower of sparks was falling upon the roof.

"Who—whom's the storekeeper?" he panted.

He was gone—gone—gone—and—and—across the gravelly and fireswept expanse bellowing from the roof of the wood shed. He presented a horrible figure in the glare of the blazing chimney.

"Fire! Fire! Fire!" he bellowed.

Then he ceased. He had reached the door, elegant piazza and pillars reared his head on the window—pulled—

Two long minutes passed.

"My family's gone!" he at last realized!" he thundered. "Do you was the place in here as?"

The astonished citizen shook [illegible] accordingly. "Yer haven't got the house, I reckon, and the guv'ment is now occupying it as the home to the [illegible] Mr. Brown's self control was [illegible] he went home [illegible] there's no [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] and
