THE HOME CIRCLE Column

PLEASANT EVENING REVERIES—A COLUMN DEDICATED TO TIRED MOTHERS AS THEY JOIN THE HOME CIRCLE AT EVENING TIME.

Idle Thoughts From the Editorial Pen

It is not to get the best there is in life to give them your best.

It is where mother lives. And the sweetest spots on earth is the spot where mother.

Housekeeping and home life are the most important of all things. They are sought after by all. Girls get married who do not know how to make a loaf of bread.

What these things will take themselves and they can live with a man in his ignorance. For that the heart and stomach are so tenderly that they are separated. Ignorance can make bliss in housekeeping. It is no sure way to lose the love of a husband than to spoil his love.

Reason why so many girls are left and young men are unloved. They try to be like somebody else rather than to remain themselves. In nature you don't see a yellow leg, or a horned cow, or a lily as a rose, or a penny, or a dog as a cat. Be what you are.

It is much better in a plain, quiet home where all is peace and all the neighbors heartily welcome to come and go at will, and to feel the positive, genuine, and optimistic of fashionable life should not care to live which should contain a hundred years.

Get together—share a book, a cup of coffee, a crusty and unadorned whiteness. If you want to keep your children away from places of sin, you can help do it by making your home attractive.

Home, Sweet Home. The home, he it ever so humble, is the one sweet spot to which all eyes are lovingly turned, and from which all happiness radiates.

The proud boast of the old English proverb is that a man's home is his castle. The four winds of heaven might blow through it and it would not cross its threshold unbidden. Only the law's stern necessity in result of crime could authorize an unwelcome intrusion.

The sanctity of former times still sorprisingly surrounds it, and the sacredness of its portals has been but annulled by the advancement of civilization. The modern home needs neither towers, battlements, nor bastions to protect it from the assaults of the powerful. The banished thief to defend his lawful shack, invoke the protecting arm of the whole nation.

The government of all the world fosters the love of home. Liberal laws are enacted with this end in view. The public domain is generously bestowed upon bona fide settlers. The various states, without a single exception, have exempted the homes from seizure for even a just debt. In short, the protection and sacredness of the home goes side by side with the protection of the person. It is the common law of all nations.

A true lady in as much a body washing her dinner dishes, preparing the washings for dinner, cleaning, harp and scrubbing floors, or when she is banding over his children and giving them a drawing master and a grade teacher. The physical exercises that child will not be attended to unless the father looks to it. He must sometimes lose his dignity. He must sometimes tell them off to their sports, forget the severe duties of life sometimes to fly the kite and brand the hoop, and chase the ball, and jump the rope with the children.

TAXPAYERS DISCUSS PROBLEMS

"Get Together" Meeting Not Yet Largely Attended But Plenty of Enthusiasm Prevailed.

Less than a hundred were out to the mass meeting Friday night at the Commercial club rooms to discuss the questions before the taxpayers and voters in the proposed bond issue. All the more representative present, but it was a representative audience of business interests and taxpayers and by the time the meeting adjourned considerable enthusiasm was being displayed.

Mr. Congdon began by saying he wanted it understood that he did not come over from Boise to attempt to sell the voters of Weiser how they should vote, but he thought he could prove why the bonds should carry. He would be money well be. Mr. Congdon presented the various subjects in a very clear and able manner. He first took up the sewer question, then the water question. Mr. Congdon pointed out the importance of expending a large sum at one time for improvements, rather than quibbling away in small amounts which in fact may be paid by the taxpayers and result entirely unsatisfactory. Mr. Congdon concluded by declaring it was a great success for the taxpayers to seriously consider and write for themselves and to get ready to answer any questions.

Mr. Wind said he was always considered an "old crank," but nobody could accuse him of being a crank. He stated of improvements and several other good questions in regard to getting the questions more clearly before the voters.

Committee J. J. Smith spoke very explicitly and brought out some very important points involved, giving the audience a clearer understanding of the questions. He checked the track on the local by declaring it is not the question of whether it will benefit any special interests or individuals, but resolves itself into one thing: Is the city able to bear the burden?

Mayor Adams presented a clear statement of facts which went a long way toward giving the taxpayers a better understanding of the situation confronting them. Among the things he concluded was that the voters should remember that it was absolutely necessary to carry the sewer and water bonds, as the sewer and water systems in the town are absolutely not in better shape before paying can be done.

Other speakers of the evening were: Eustace Wood, Commercial Palace; W. H. Miller, J. H. Miller, J. H. Miller, J. H. Miller. The attendance was not large, no doubt, because of the fact that a number of the business men were out of the town on business and unable to listen to the band concert.

It was decided to hold another meeting at the same place some time next week, the date to be fixed by the committee. The proposition of installing a series of meetings in the school buildings in various parts of the city may be abandoned. Instead these "Get Together" functions will probably be held at the club rooms, the court house and maybe one final grand rally at the Wheaton.

There had been adopted in the year 1912 only 7410 yearlings. The 1912 payment and only seven cities in the United States recommended its use at that time. In the following year the demand had shown a great increase, and in 1913 there were 80 cities whose record showed paid under contract, over 4,000,000 heads of Birthlithic payment. The year 1912 shows an increase of

Who is Stealing the Goose Egg?

Being a little talk on the Golden Egg the Goose laid.

This is the season of the year when all nature is arraying itself in new regalia. The trees are putting forth leaves in their bright hues and multitudinous shades, the flower kingdom is bursting forth in a blaze of glory, the birds have emerged in a new coat of feathers and so it is throughout the world.

It is the law of nature in its manifestation. Manhood and womanhood must and is following the same law.

Those of us who have not yet purchased new raiment for the summer are keenly aware of the need.

And it is not only in the matter of wearing apparel that we outfit ourselves anew in the Spring. The farmer needs and must have new machinery, the house must be redecorated and have new furniture and so it is—in all lines of activity new and better articles are demanded in this, the springtime of the year.

What are you doing Mr. Man—Mrs. Woman, you Buyers?

Are you consulting the catalogues of concerns that are doing business in some distant city or are you buying your new plumage of the home merchant?—The man who helps make your community?

Who ever heard of a Chicago firm helping toward good roads in Washington County or a park in Weiser?

Your home merchant sells at prices that compare favorably with the distant house and he is here on the ground to back up his guarantee.

Mr. Consumer you can't afford to trade in Chicago.
