FOR PROTECTION OF FOOD STUFF

The other sections referred to are as follows:

Care of Fruits and Vegetables.

Fruits, vegetables and other food products must not be displayed or stored on the sidewalk or outside the store or building unless they are securely covered by cases of glass, wood or metal or enclosed in tight boxes, bags or barrels, and all such cases, containers shall be raised at least two feet above the sidewalk. The practice heretofore followed of covering small fruits with screens or nettings is not a sufficient compliance with this regulation. This shall not apply to fruits and vegetables not exposed for sale, which have to be skinned or peeled before use and which are stored in tight barrels, boxes or crates.

Covering Food Products.

No prepared foodstuffs such as bakery goods, confectionery, shelled nuts, etc., dried fruits such as dates, figs, peaches, prunes, apricots, etc.; canned products, such as beef, tomatoes, apples, noodles, etc.; pickled products, such as pickles, chili sauce, chow chow, etc.; fruit products, such as apple butter, jellies, jams, etc.; and products such as dried, salted or smoked fish, veal loaf, pickled plus feet, mackerel, chilled beef, boiled ham or other foods prepared for eating, and subject to attack of worms or flies, shall be displayed, sold or otherwise protected from dirt and all other foreign or injurious contamination by suitable coverings of glass, wood or metal.

"We trust that you will comply with the above provision. If you have not already done so, otherwise we will be compelled to institute prosecution. A reasonable time will be given you, and we trust you will appreciate this notice, calling your attention to the law, as we do not intend that anyone shall plead ignorance as an excuse for any violation of our pure food law."

JAMES H. WALLIS,
State Dairy, Food and Sanitary Inspector, Idaho, June 8, 1912.

"This pure food law prohibiting outside displays of fruits and vegetables has been in active operation for some months, and has received its trial at the hands of the grocers generally. It may be safely said that the plan meets with the approval of a great majority of the grocers of the state. Some thought the elimination of the outside display would necessarily cut down the fruit and green vegetable business, but it has not done so. When the new law went into effect," says one grocer, "I put in a fountain in my store and set the shelves under the awray. I keep my vegetables always moist, cool and fresh. My berries and fruits are always cool and fresh in the shade of my awray, and I believe that the change has been a good thing. Instead of looking at a lot of wilted and unattractive fruits and vegetables out on the sidewalk, where the flies are hovering and the customers come inside and see the same things cool, fresh and inviting. While the expense of making the fountain display is a little more, the business is growing and everybody is better satisfied."

It may be that in a few instances the law has hurt business, but these cases are rare, and will usually be found to be due to the fact that the grocer had not taken notice of such tempting display of vegetables outside.

Some grocers have depicted a scene of the front window in the vegetable display, and keep the windows clean, bright and cool with awrays. Such a display sets even at rest attention from outside display.

From a purely business standpoint the change has been a good one, and is no doubt for the benefit of the public.

In a certain city of Pennsylvania a woman who sells bread and cakes, etc., has been trained in the good old-fashioned principles of cleanliness and hygiene, and some lessons she learned in the mill that make in bread and cakes that have been traced over many times by the common house fly. She is the lady of Koenigberg, he says and spread carefully covered during the preceding when she fly invaded every accessible place. She waits by experience during the post summer which were rather trying. Now wanted to be honest with the public, she wanted to be an expert in the best and makes the baker, always using proper materials and taking a wholesome pride in the superior quality of all she prepared for the market.

She says that another baker whose stand was close to hers did not trouble herself to cover her products. "And many times during the summer," she declared, "people went right by my cake because they were covered and made their purchases from my neighbor whose stand and everything upon it, was fairly black with flies. They see my goods covered up and next to my neighbor who has no scruples of conscience, against selling fly-tainted goods." It is true that "few folks" do notice the difference and do buy from me, but they do not buy from her. Now what do I do? Still I continue to obey the state law, as should I imitate my neighbor and let the flies have their access to my goods? I cannot afford to take bread and cakes into the market for the sake of showing them off; and yet I don't like to give the flies the freedom of my awray. This line case, simply shows the necessity of continued vigilance, effort to educate the people concerning the dirt that the common house fly carries on its wings, and to let the public that in this hot time of the year, the health has been sold and written, the majority of the attendants at any city market deliberately prefer to purchase bread and cakes when a clean and wholesome article is right at their hand.

Wedding at Huntington.

A pretty wedding took place, Monday at 11 o'clock at the beautiful country home of John W. Lane, and a half mile northwest of Huntington, when Miss Hazel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lane, became the bride of Vincent E. Deig, youngest son of John H. Deig of Weiser. The ceremony, which was conducted by Rev. O. Vander Donck of Pocatello, was witnessed by a large number of relatives and friends of the happy couple.

The bride wore a beautiful gown of silk chiffon and carried a large bouquet of bridal roses. She was attended by Miss Lane, the sister of the groom, who wore a dainty gown of white silk and carried a bouquet of white silk carnations. The groom was attired in the conventional black. Louis Lane, brother of the groom, received many gifts.

Miss Lane, being well known to their many friends, after July 3rd, the groom is in the railway mail service between Pocatello and Portland, their many friends will join the Signal in extending best wishes and hearty congratulations.

SIDES ARE IN DOUBT

June 18.—Traft and Hadley burst the midday session again and first test vote of the resolution with respect to the presidential nomination to keep a close record of the first record lineup and so on it was far better. So much so, in fact, that the two sides were really made on a night that neither Traft nor Hadley were likely to win on this side of talk. Necessary warning of the danger of a tie was given, however, that this would amount to nothing but a direct test of the opposing candidates. In force in the convention for Senator Hildy Root as chairman, 125 votes being cast. This was 18 more than the 107 delegates in the convention. It was realized from the vote on Senator Root, that the delegates might reflect the actual vote of Mr. Traft or Mr. Hadley. The delegates of the Traft led side said they had secured out the doubtful votes and their final tally was as follows:

A LONG DAY OF SPEECHMAKING

CHICAGO, June 18.—The long day of the convention to roll the Hadley resolution to the roll was ordered and it was carried by a vote of 107 to 100. This is a gain for the Traft forces of five votes over that of the Hadley forces for chairmanship. Several challenges were presented and as the result is announced the convention is at a standstill.

CHICAGO, June 18.—The doors of the convention were thrown open for the second day of the session of the Republican national convention at 10 o'clock this morning and people at once began to crowd into the building. Many conferences are being held on the platform and the floor as the delegates are arriving.

At 11:11, Chicago time, Temporary Chairman Root called the convention to order. He had much difficulty in getting the delegates quieted. The session was adjourned at 11:30 by Dean Wm. P. Stammers of St. Peter and Paul.

After the invocation Governor Hadley took the floor in support of his resolution to reject the list of fraternal delegates elected by the national committee. When he quoted Roosevelt's ringing indictment of the committee he was loudly cheered by both delegates and spectators. The showy side was deafening as he set forth the "diplomatic part" of the Roosevelt side of the question. In reading the report of the minority of the committee, Governor Hadley alluded to the unimpeachable character of the men who elected it. As he concluded his address he was loudly cheered, delegates standing on seats and waving hats and banners.

Delegate W. P. Dural of Washington, replied in support of the majority.

TROUBLE IN LAFOLLETTE CAMP

CHICAGO, June 18.—Henry P. Cochems, the Wisconsin delegate who today nominated McGovern and thereby clashed with Houser and the LaFollette delegation from his state, declared tonight as a member of the delegation. He issued a sharp attack on LaFollette, in which he accused the Wisconsin senator of having pursued a "selfish and perverted narrow policy."

James Stone, secretary of the Wisconsin delegation, denied tonight that he had received Mr. Cochems' resignation, but admitted he had heard that the statement in question had been issued and circulated. In the statement Cochems and he had nominated McGovern as an individual in the hope of subdividing the progressive movement. This movement, he said, under the LaFollette leadership, had divided instead of increased.

Walter F. Houser, Senator LaFollette's manager, did not seem perturbed by Mr. Cochems' statement. In fact, he seemed smiling.

"I am glad of it," he said. "A conference in the Wisconsin headquarters was held at a late hour tonight, but it was decided that Cochems' statement was dismissed in any way. Later in the night Cochems was an active participant in the Roosevelt caucus."

Cuba's Insurrection and Two Of the Means of Checking It

ONCE again the United States government has been obliged to make preparations to "keep the lid on" Cuba and has dispatched a strong expedition under the command of Rear Admiral Coghswell, with the intention of restoring order and peace to the island.

Under the provisions of the Platt amendment the United States has the right to intervene for the preservation of Cuban independence and for the maintenance of a government able to protect life, property and individual liberty. The Cuban government has protested its ability to put down the insurrection with its regular and volunteer forces, which include many of the men who fought against the Spaniards in the war of independence. The United States is shown in the upper photograph a detachment of the regular army.

DEMOCRATS ARE COUNSELING

BALTIMORE, June 18.—Democrats in their pre-convention councils here today gave pause to few affairs in the Republican national convention in Chicago. With the leaders of all "practical" candidates for the presidential nomination here, there was quiet conference to prepare plans for capturing the uncommitted delegates.

Former Judge Alton B. Parker of New York was said tonight to be the likely choice for temporary chairman of the convention, with Representative Olin Johnson as the next strongest candidate.

W. D. Coombs, campaign leader of Governor Wilson, took charge of Wilson headquarters today and announced that Senator George of Oklahoma and Representative Mitchell Palmer of Pennsylvania would accept the nomination of Wilson.

J. Hamilton Lewis of Chicago camp in this afternoon with a plan to swing the vote to Wilson by an Illinois Senator, Frank B. Rowland of Alabama, who, looking after the interests of Governor Underwood, talked things over with the national committee.

Friends of Governor Burke of North Dakota say that if the convention is deadlocked, the governor will be a "dark horse" candidate for president, but that if the nomination goes to Wilson, Governor Burke will be a candidate for the vice presidency.

A resolution drawn up by the St. Paul franchise league, providing equal franchise plans for the Democratic platform, had been given Senator Harnett of Maryland for presentation to the resolutions committee.

Former Illinois railroad commissioner Frank C. McHenry, who has been elected to the Philadelphia at Washington, has come to Baltimore to urge adoption of a "plank" in the Democratic platform.
