HARD BLOW FOR JAPAN

Big Ocean Reported Lost in Vladivostok Region

London, August 17.—A big ocean liner, the "Hirakawa," was reported lost in the Vladivostok region, according to a dispatch from the Japanese government. The "Hirakawa" was a 10,000-ton liner, built in Japan, and was on her way to Vladivostok from Yokohama. She was last seen on August 15, and was reported to have struck a rock in the night. The Japanese government has ordered a search for the "Hirakawa" and her crew. It is believed that the "Hirakawa" was carrying a large amount of cargo, including a number of automobiles. The Japanese government has also ordered a search for the crew of the "Hirakawa." It is believed that the crew of the "Hirakawa" was all on board when she was last seen.
