Eternal Satisfaction is the Price of Leadership

In merchandising today it is the store that continuously gives its customers that kind of merchandise, that kind of store service, and that fairness in dealing, in every detail, which will make for the customer's complete satisfaction—it is that store that will forge to the front. It is that store that will grow and grow and become a permanent institution in that locality, and, the pride of its owners.

Whether you trade with us for the first time or for the hundredth time, you may feel assured that you will receive the same courteous attention, the same satisfactory service, and the same conscientious care at all the lowest prices consistent with conscientious merchandising.

Fall Coats and Suits for Women, in Plain and Elaborate Models

These garments represent the most desirable features of the newest designs. Serviceability and comfort as well as style have been considered in preparing them. The materials are of a good grade and nothing but thoroughly reliable workmanship have entered into their making.

The prices range from $10.00 to $45.00.

Morris Sommer Co.

THE STORE FOR EVERYBODY

OLYMPIAN GAMES

The Famous Contests in the Days of Ancient Greece.

MORE IMPORTANT THAN WAR

Battles Might Be Forgotten, but Time Was Reckoned and Events Dated From the Years of the Olympiads—The Pycadic Contest, the Pancratium.

According to tradition, the celebration of Olympian games was established by Zeus in honor of his success over Chronos in his struggle for the supremacy of heaven. The more generally received account, however, relates that these famous games were instituted by the Idaean Hercules, the eldest of the five brothers to whom Rhea* confided Zeus after his birth. These games were held every fifth year, because, according to this myth, the Curetes were five in number. The games were therefore four years apart.

The first of the games, according to this tradition, was simply a foot race, in which Hercules and his four brothers were the only contestants. This simple contest for foot was continued to the fifty-first Olympic game—the fifteenth Olympiad, when a second contest, the double course, was introduced—i. e., to the end of the course and back again. In the nineteenth Olympiad (ten years later) wrestling and the pentathlon, a contest in five exercises—leaping, running, throwing the discus and the javelin, and the foot race—were introduced.

The pentathlon was a favorite contest in Greece. Almost any method of throwing an opponent and compelling him to acknowledge himself vanquished was permitted. Wrestling, boxing, kicking, choking and even the deliberate breaking of bones were allowed.

The prizes to the Olympian contests were merely wreaths from the wild olive trees abundant in the locality, and the games of all took place on one day, until the twenty-seventh Olympiad, when the Greeks, desiring to do greater honor to the gods for their defeat of the Persians, extended the games to six five days.

All Greece repeated the words during the games were held as a holiday. Business of every kind was at a standstill, and the public roads thronged and attended the games as friendly rivals. The importance of the games may be gathered from the fact that the Olympiads were used by historians according to the games, just as all people were reckoned it from the events which occurred in them the most important.

The Olympian were all time in the beginning of the Christian era, so the Mohammedans in the front of their conquest and invasion of the west of the dwelling of their city. But the Greek historians used to speak the date of events as the Olympiad and the fourth year of that Olympiad in which Rome was the Athenian was the prize is contest, the Olympiad would occur in. Those who were victors were recorded the most extravagant honors. Their old homes were repaired and their return home with unbounded delight, and their sons were given the highest seats of honor at every public festivity. Poets of the greatest merit were their praises. The odes in honor of victors rendered statues to their honor. It is not surprising that, when the games or meant so much, professionals should have accordingly employed to secure it. Every attempt, however, was made to prevent foul play, and the unfairness was regarded as sacrilege the games were held. Officers corresponding the judges were sent over the country to see that all those who were guilty of unfairness were punished in money and often corporal punishment.

It does not seem, however, that despite the severity of the punishment the contest were much depressed. Statues erected to victors who came were, and even cities were built by the generosity of his successful fellow citizens. At last there were no longer enough cities to erect statues in honor of victors, and the dead began to be erected.

The cycle of the decay of the games was that the poor and the moderately wealthy followed victory, finally the rich. At last there were no longer any prizes of any value, and the games were discontinued. The interest in the games of Greek youth, with the single exception of the pentathlon, was very small, when they were prohibited by an edict by the Roman Theodosius, in A. D. 394, few persons subjected to them.

Long before this the games had become notorious for their brutality—and forbidden women were allowed to compete. Bribery was frequent, and the Olympic Emperor Nero on one occasion was persuaded to bind every prize offered.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

*Rhea, in Greek mythology, the wife of Cronus and mother of Zeus, Poseidon, Hades, Hestia, Demeter and Hera.

COPPERPLATE ENGRAVING.

The Art Was Discovered Through the Merest Accident.

Every one has noticed on the visiting card, the exquisitely delicate lines of his name, and almost every one knows that they are produced by printing from an engraved copperplate. Like many other things of use and beauty, its art or copperplate engraving was discovered through the merest accident, when they may be seen and appreciated by the people.

It is a historical fact, however, that one day an engraver on gold, wishing to take a proof of his work, took the metal plate out and then filled up the lines with lampblack, then endeavoring to see exactly how his work looked. While engaged in doing this it occurred to him that possibly the same result could be obtained by taking a sheet of paper and laying on the engraved metal plate, and then passing the two through the rollers of a press. This was done, and the result was the discovery of the art of copperplate printing.

The latter keyed, Mr. Blanchard, a fellow of Boston, proceeding to ascend in a balloon from the city of Philadelphia, in the presence of the assembled multitude. Just before the time for the ascension, Mr. Blanchard, accompanied by a dog and cat, entered the car of the balloon, and when the signal was given, the balloon rose majestically into the air, and was soon lost to view.

AIDED THE AERONAUT.

Washington Was the Godfather of Aviation in America.

Apparently George Washington was not only the Father of His Country, but also answering fills the godfather of aviation in America. At any rate, he wrote a letter for one M. Blanchard, who made the first balloon ascension in the country at Philadelphia in 1793. The letter reposited in St. Nicholas Magazine.

George Washington, president of the United States of America. To all whom these presents shall come.

Sir: Know ye, that the bearer hereof, Mr. Blanchard, a citizen of France, proposing to ascend in a balloon from the city of Philadelphia, has requested me to give him a passport in order that he may safely and freely pass in the case of accident happening to him or his balloon, or being compelled by any force to descend, may receive every assistance and protection which may be necessary in such unfortunate circumstances.

I do therefore recommend him to all citizens of the United States and others, that in his passage, descent, return or journeying elsewhere they oppose no hindrance or molestation to him to call Mr. Blanchard, and that, on the contrary, they receive and aid him with their friendship and good offices, whereby he may be safe and expedited in his journey and business in all parts of the United States.

Given under my hand and seal at the city of Philadelphia, this ninth day of January, one thousand seven hundred and ninety-three, and of the Independence of America the seventeenth.

"GEORGE WASHINGTON."

His Retirement.

Friend—Jones' house was for sale a time. Poor—No. Fact is I have become a good deal of a recluse lately. Friend—I feared as. How much do you own?

He that wastes of things that he not possess shall hear of things that will not please him.—Arabian Proverb.

Ladies of Weiser:

Saturday, September 14th

On Display in Our Store, Sample Line of Cloaks, Suits and Dresses from the foremost designers and manufacturers in this country; of distinctive and original styles. Special Orders will be taken. Only one style of a Garment to be sold in this city

Your Inspection Invited

even if you do not intend to purchase,as it will be worth your while to see the last minute in style effects that are the prevailing vogue

Caplan Bros.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISEMENTS

FOR SALE—Two lots on 7th street; 4 cents per line per time.

WANTED—Girl or woman for general housework. Inquire at Signal office. 117-tf

WANTED—Girl for general housework in small family. Inquire at Signal office. 117-tf

WANTED—Washing that cannot be done at the Star Steam Laundry. Phone 141.

FOR RENT—Two furnished rooms for light housekeeping at 341 W. Liberty. Everything modern. 116-tf

FOR RENT—Five-room cottage, fully modern, on Seventh, corner of Main and Third Park. Phone 144 pink.

SIGNALS ADVERTISING BARGES.

For Sale:
Want a cook.
Want a boarder.
Want a parlor.
Want a situation.
Want a servant girl.
Want to sell a piano.
Want to sell a cook stove.
Want to sell your property.
Want to sell your automobile.
Want to sell your livestock.
Want to sell your military equipment.
Want to sell your farm.
Want to sell your poultry.
Want to sell your grain.
Want to sell your hay.
Want to sell your fruit.
Want to sell your vegetables.
Want to sell your dairy products.
Want to sell your real estate.
Want to sell your timber.
Want to sell your mining claim.
Want to sell your mining stock.
Want to sell your patent.
Want to sell your invention.
Want to sell your automobile.
Want to sell your bicycle.
Want to sell your sewing machine.
Want to sell your typewriter.
Want to sell your safe.
Want to sell your office furniture.
Want to sell your store fixtures.
Want to sell your tools.
Want to sell your machinery.
Want to sell your boat.
Want to sell your launch.
Want to sell your canoe.
Want to sell your skiff.
Want to sell your scow.
Want to sell your barge.
Want to sell your tug.
Want to sell your steamer.
Want to sell your yacht.
Want to sell your sailboat.
Want to sell your rowboat.
Want to sell your oars.
Want to sell your paddles.
Want to sell your life preservers.
Want to sell your anchor.
Want to sell your chain.
Want to sell your rope.
Want to sell your wire.
Want to sell your nails.
Want to sell your screws.
Want to sell your bolts.
Want to sell your nuts.
Want to sell your washers.
Want to sell your rivets.
Want to sell your hinges.
Want to sell your locks.
Want to sell your keys.
Want to sell your hardware.
Want to sell your stove.
Want to sell your range.
Want to sell your heater.
Want to sell your furnace.
Want to sell your radiator.
Want to sell your boiler.
Want to sell your engine.
Want to sell your motor.
Want to sell your dynamo.
Want to sell your electric fixtures.
Want to sell your wiring.
Want to sell your batteries.
Want to sell your bells.
Want to sell your gas fixtures.
Want to sell your gas pipe.
Want to sell your water pipe.
Want to sell your sewer pipe.
Want to sell your drain tile.
Want to sell your brick.
Want to sell your lime.
Want to sell your cement.
Want to sell your sand.
Want to sell your gravel.
Want to sell your stone.
Want to sell your coal.
Want to sell your wood.
Want to sell your kindling.
Want to sell your shingles.
Want to sell your lath.
Want to sell your doors.
Want to sell your windows.
Want to sell your sash.
Want to sell your glass.
Want to sell your paint.
Want to sell your oil.
Want to sell your varnish.
Want to sell your stain.
Want to sell your wall paper.
Want to sell your carpets.
Want to sell your rugs.
Want to sell your linoleum.
Want to sell your oilcloth.
Want to sell your furniture.
Want to sell your chairs.
Want to sell your tables.
Want to sell your desks.
Want to sell your bureaus.
Want to sell your beds.
Want to sell your springs.
Want to sell your mattresses.
Want to sell your pillows.
Want to sell your blankets.
Want to sell your quilts.
Want to sell your sheets.
Want to sell your pillow cases.
Want to sell your towels.
Want to sell your table linen.
Want to sell your napkins.
Want to sell your dishes.
Want to sell your glassware.
Want to sell your silverware.
Want to sell your cutlery.
Want to sell your kitchen utensils.
Want to sell your pots.
Want to sell your pans.
Want to sell your kettles.
Want to sell your cooking utensils.
Want to sell your groceries.
Want to sell your meat.
Want to sell your fish.
Want to sell your poultry.
Want to sell your eggs.
Want to sell your butter.
Want to sell your cheese.
Want to sell your milk.
Want to sell your cream.
Want to sell your ice.
Want to sell your fruit.
Want to sell your vegetables.
Want to sell your seeds.
Want to sell your plants.
Want to sell your flowers.
Want to sell your trees.
Want to sell your shrubs.
Want to sell your vines.
Want to sell your bulbs.
Want to sell your roots.
Want to sell your tubers.
Want to sell your corms.
Want to sell your rhizomes.
Want to sell your tubers.
Want to sell your bulbs.
Want to sell your roots

THE DAILY SIGNAL

Every Day Except Sunday

JOURNAL PUBLISHING COMPANY

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

INDIA'S SACRED MONKEYS.

BRAKE THE GIRAFFE

Magnetic Storms Are Robbing the Magnetic Needle.

DAY STAND STILL SOME DAY

That One Side of the World Will Be a Burnt Furnace, the Other a Block by Winter, And Nothing Will Find Itself in Constant Sunrise.

A SWORD OF HONOR.

HE BORROWED MONEY.

ADVERT

FOR H

¶Home stores make a they ask for trade on th being a home institution. to your trade that you can petition with petitors, both in prices and qu the trade will be yours.
¶You are where the people the goods, examine them and just what they are buying.

IF YOU WANT TO SELL GO

¶Tell the people that you have
Tell them just what kind of goo are and what they are selling fo Merchant Who Talks the to his prospective customers w the business.

ADVERTIS
IN THE SIG

¶Will help pull the busines Always at your service. Let over with you.

Sommercamp...
UNDERWEAR and Linings

$5.00

NOTICE—On Saturday $5.00 in Gold will be given away paper and packed at

SANITARY TABLE
The Wholesome Loaf

There will be no way of telling the diff after it is baked and wrapped and will be sold with 1000 other loaves on that

5c

Imperial Baker

$5.00 FREE