ROOSEVELT TO BE THE REPUBLICAN STANDARD BEARER - OPENING SPEECH BY HON. ELIHU ROOT

Republican National Convention met at Chicago on Tuesday. Acting Chairman Payne called the vast assemblage to order. Committees were appointed and Hon. Elihu Root was named for temporary chairman. In taking up the Gavel Mr. Root delivered the keynote speech of the Campaign, as follows:

Mr. Chairman, I have the honor to be here with you on this important day. The Republican Party has a great future ahead of it, and we must stand united in our support of our candidates. We must not allow ourselves to be divided by sectional interests or personal ambitions. We must remember that we are here to serve the people of the United States, and we must do so with integrity and courage.

The Republican Party has a long and honorable history, and we must continue to uphold its principles and traditions. We must stand for the rights of the individual, for the rights of the States, and for the rights of the Union. We must stand for the principles of justice, of equality, and of freedom. We must stand for the principles of the Constitution, and we must stand for the principles of the American people.

We must stand for the principles of the American people, and we must stand for the principles of the American people. We must stand for the principles of the American people, and we must stand for the principles of the American people. We must stand for the principles of the American people, and we must stand for the principles of the American people.
